1. Introduction

As a part of the 75th Jubilee Celebration of St. Aloysius College (Autonomous), Jabalpur, the Department of Management organised a Community Service Activity at Meghawa, Dumna, Jabalpur, under the theme "Samaj Ke Sang, Seva Ke Rang."

The initiative was aimed at fostering social responsibility, community engagement, and a spirit of service among the students of the college. As part of the programme, the team visited a Government school in Meghawa, where various interactive and educational sessions were conducted for the students.

The first day of the activity, 11 August 2026, focused on engaging the school students through interactive learning sessions designed to enhance their communication abilities, personality development, basic mathematical skills, health awareness, and overall confidence.

2. Orientation and Ice-Breaking Session

The programme commenced with an Orientation and Ice-Breaking Session conducted under the guidance of Dr. Rashmi Patras, Head of the Department of Management, and Dr. Shraddha Shrivastava.

The session was designed to make the students comfortable and encourage active participation throughout the programme. Through interactive activities and introductions, the students were encouraged to communicate freely and participate with confidence.

3. Basics of English and Effective Communication

The first educational session focused on Basics of English and Effective Communication and was conducted under the guidance of Mrs. Archana Dubey. The session aimed to help the students develop confidence in communicating, improve their basic English skills, and understand the importance of effective communication in their everyday lives.

The session was conducted by students of BBA 3rd semester and 1st semester: Noor Fatima, Alina Qureshi, Aadhya Mishra, and Archita Soni. Various topics related to personality development, public speaking, effective communication, and the importance of using “Magic Words” such as please, thank you, sorry, and excuse me were discussed.

The students were actively involved throughout the session. They were encouraged to come forward, introduce themselves, interact with the volunteers, and express themselves confidently. The interactive approach made the session engaging and provided the students with an opportunity to practice communication skills.

4. Skill Enhancement – Tricks for Basic Mathematics

The second educational session focused on Skill Enhancement through Basic Mathematics, conducted under the guidance of Mr. Vanish David. The objective of the session was to make basic mathematical concepts easier to understand by introducing the students to simple and practical techniques.

Rashi Prithwani, student of BBA 3rd Semester explained concepts including the number line, greater than, less than and equal to, along with ascending and descending order. Muskan Gupta, student of BBA 3rd Semester introduced the students to quick and simple addition tricks, helping them perform basic calculations more efficiently.

The session followed a practical and interactive approach, with students being invited to the board to solve questions and demonstrate their understanding. Their active participation made the session engaging and helped them develop greater confidence in dealing with basic mathematical problems.

5. Health and Hygiene Awareness

The final session of the day focused on Health and Hygiene Awareness, conducted under the guidance of Dr. Rashmi Patras and Dr. Shraddha Shrivastava. The session was conducted by students of BBA 3rd Semester: Aashi Khandelwal, Anshika Tiwari, and Kanak Adlakha.

The session aimed to create awareness among the students about personal hygiene, cleanliness, healthy habits, and basic safety practices. The students were made aware of the importance of regularly washing their hands, keeping themselves and their surroundings clean, and following healthy habits in their daily lives.

The session also included awareness regarding responsible mobile phone usage. Students were encouraged to avoid excessive screen time and understand the importance of balancing mobile phone use with studies, physical activities, and other healthy daily habits.

6. Interactive Learning and Student Participation

One of the key aspects of the day's program was the emphasis on interactive learning and active participation. With approximately 50 students from Classes I to VIII participating in the program, the sessions encouraged students to learn through interaction and practical activities.

Rather than following a purely lecture-based approach, the college volunteers encouraged students to introduce themselves, answer questions, come to the board, solve mathematical problems, and participate in discussions and activities. This approach helped create a friendly learning environment and encouraged students to express themselves with greater confidence.

The interaction also provided the college students with an opportunity to engage directly with the school community and understand the importance of adapting learning activities according to the students' needs and level of understanding.

7. Distribution of Educational Materials

The day's activities concluded with the distribution of educational materials and refreshments among the participating students. As part of the contribution made by the college towards the community service initiative, useful stationery items such as registers, pencils, erasers, and other educational materials were distributed to the students. Juice was also provided as a refreshment. The distribution served as a gesture of support and encouragement and brought the day's activities to a warm conclusion.

8. Conclusion

The first day of the Community Service Activity provided the school students with an opportunity to learn through interactive sessions, participation, and practical activities. The programme successfully combined education with community engagement and aimed to encourage confidence, awareness, and positive habits among the students. The initiative reflected the spirit of “Samaj Ke Sang, Seva Ke Rang” and highlighted the Department of Management’s commitment to meaningful community service as part of the college’s 75th Jubilee Celebration.
