Report:

It's not about achieving perfection, but rather about the level of effort we invest. A person's most valuable qualities are not just a mind filled with knowledge, but also a heart brimming with love, ears ready to listen, and hands eager to assist others, ultimately revealing their best selves. The Aloysian community emphasizes a balance between intellectual growth and philanthropy. The Department of Applied Economics and Honors, had the privilege of experiencing the positive impact of our college through the "Extension Activity" organized on October 23, 2019. The purpose was to instil values such as cooperation, compassion, kindness, unconditional love, respect for others, and equanimity among students. First-year students collaborated by collecting funds to purchase lunch boxes. Filled with gratitude, we distributed these boxes to the non-teaching staff as a token of appreciation for their selfless service, often behind the scenes, contributing to the success of every major and minor event in our esteemed institution.

The learning outcomes of the Programme were as follows:

- Students will demonstrate increased understanding and application of cooperative and compassionate behaviours.
- Exhibit a heightened sense of gratitude and appreciation for the efforts of non-teaching staff.
- Students will demonstrate a strong sense of unity and service orientation in their interactions and activities.
- Students will instil the values of respect and equanimity in their daily lives, contributing to a positive and inclusive campus environment.
