Focus more on inter disciplinary activities of many courses.	Focus more on practical aspects. Projects and internships should be given more weightages as evaluation component. Industrial experts should be invited to deliver guest lectures.	These skills should be improved and training programs should be organised to improve the placement opportunities.	Curriculum should also focus on extending the areas of environment and its effects on the future generations and gender awareness programs to be organised also gender sanitization program to be organised.	When a course is designed so that the learning goals align with activities and assessments, it can help students develop conceptual awareness, learn to synthesize ideas, and begin constructing their own knowledge.
